Supervisor, Planning & Research

Anthony Piscitelli, Supervisor of Planning & Research, oversees the research conducted on behalf of the Crime Prevention Council. In conjunction with Research Analyst Jessica Hutchison, he is currently conducting a research project identifying the gaps in services for victims and perpetrators of violence. He is also preparing research reports on fear of crime in Waterloo Region and the spatial distribution of crime and violence.

Anthony is currently pursuing a Masters in Political Science at Wilfrid Laurier University. He also serves on the Board of Your Neighbourhood Credit Union.

In his spare time he likes to play basketball, frisbee and if he's feeling geeky, board games. Anthony's interest in crime prevention traces back to his family roots as his parents and two siblings have all worked in law enforcement roles.
